SEEKING ARTISTS AND INVENTORS FOR AMERICA'S FIRST UPCYCLE MARKET.

We are creating a new type of holiday market, one that does not buy into the stuff complex, or the candy overload. This indoor holiday market is artistic, educational and creatively inspiring. An experimental project made possible with some help from the city of Sacramento. Market items are repurposed or upcycled.

Selected artists will begin to have 24/7 access to artist co-working space in October, giving artists time to create and prepare their market space until the market opens to the public on the first weekend of December. The market will run for four weekends, ending the night before Christmas. During market open hours artists are welcomed to do workshops in designated workshop spaces.

This is a new interactive shopping experience where the public gets to meet the artists, watch them work, and learn a thing or two. In the process, the public gets to support local artists.

Seeking artists who are interested in selling during the holiday season.

If you are an established artist or have always dreamed of becoming one, we would like you to apply. We have two main requirements:

- 1) That you make dope repurposed stuff or have a talent that can be utilized.
- 2) You are a kind person that works well with others. Our goal is to make this transformative for the public and fun and profitable for the artists.
